FOREWARD

This bibliography has been compiled from materials obtained by the Chicana Library Project under the Center for the Study of Human Resources. Consisting of books and texts as well as numerous reduplicated articles, clippings and special editions, the materials remain available through the Human Resources Center. Those materials not within the Chicana Library Project have been so indicated and further search information provided. Listed under subject heading, it was decided that this could perhaps prove to be the easiest way of facilitating direct information on particular topics, hopefully avoiding countless scanning and time consuming searches. These materials are but a starting point and should in no way be considered as an extensive collection covering every aspect of la mujer Chicana. Daily, works are being produced and published by and on Chicanas and their future in every aspect of labor, economics, education, politics and the Chicano Movement to name but a few issues. It is the hope of this author, that this bibliography will stiumlate further in-depth study on la mujer Chicana in order to build a better understanding of where she is headed.
